PROPOSAL

Add a function that will allow saving individual preferences for the next use of program. For example, introduce the concept of 'Print setup profile', which can be saved and loaded separately. Such a profile would include all report settings (except maybe Logo), so once saved for each new competition we would have only to load the local 'preset' and then customize it according to that competition's needs.

RATIONALE

In the current version the user has to tune the program for his preferences once more each time when he enters a new race. Having to perform these actions for each and every competition seems like too much effort for the RO. Options that allow to save individual preferences will save time for the user and decrease the possibility of occasional mistakes.
